ELECTION NOV. 3, 1896.

For Congress,
HON. JNO. W. LEWIS.

If you are owing us on subscription, please call and settle at ONCE. The tag on your paper will indicate how much you owe. Now, we are in earnest about this matter and MUST have money. We have made repeated appeals to some of you in regard to your accounts, but you have not responded. It takes money to pay our bills, and a few dollars from you will assist us very greatly. Please attend to this and let us hear from you without delay.

When Democratic papers raise a howl about Gov. Bradley's pardon, though they kept silence while Democratic Governors were pardoning twice as many in the same time, they only show narrow partisanship and not any regard for the well-being of the State.

The state board of equalization has completed its work. The equalized assessment of property for taxation is $570,926,762; in 1895 it was $573,206,987. The amount of tax for 1896 will be $2,426,428.73; it was $2,436,129.66 in 1895. Exemptions in 1896 are $35,350,940; in 1895 they were $37,822,173.

We observe a disposition among some Democratic papers to gloat over the recent fire at the Eddyville prison, because they think it will embarrass the Republican administration. This shows their true worth and patriotism for their State. The fire was unfortunate, and we are glad to know that some Democrats condemn the idea of gloating over the accident.

The Congressional race is now on in the 4th District, and the Republican party has nominated one of the best men in the District to represent us in the House of Congress. Mr. Lewis has always been found at his post of duty, battling for the rights of his people, and now he comes seeking a re-election. He redeemed the District in 1894 and stands ready to carry the banner to victory in 1896. Republicans should organize and stand together in the coming fight.

GOV. BRADLEY'S PARDONS.

There is a great disposition among Democratic papers to abuse Gov. Bradley for using the pardoning power too freely. It is strange that these same sheets never said anything about Gov. Brown and Gov. Buckner's record for the first five months of their respective administrations. The records in the Governor's office show that he granted 127 pardons up to May 1. In the first five months of Gov. Buckner's term he granted 217 pardons, and during the first five months of Gov. Brown's term he pardoned 222 convicts. So you can readily see from the foregoing figures that Gov. Bradley's record in the pardoning business is much better than either of his predecessors. Now the Louisville Times starts the great cry about the Governor pardoning so many convicts and it is immediately taken up by the little one-horse papers throughout the State about the size of the Hartford Herald, who can't see any good in a Republican official. Such blunders as these papers are making is amusing to every fair-minded man. They do not try to report the facts about anything, but grab up every little thing they see floating around with the expectation of making political capital out of it. The people have become so accustomed to the lies of the Herald that they do not give much credit to what it says, and its great cry this week will fall flat upon its less scattering readers. If they are going to treat officials fair why is it they did not say anything about Gov. Brown and Gov. Buckner.

Tell the truth or forever hold your peace.

McKinley on Release.

To relieve the distress of our Democratic neighbors, who are worried about the position of ex-Gov. McKinley upon the silver question, we publish the following extract from his speech during his campaign against ex-Gov. Campbell for Governor of Ohio:

"Unlike the opponent, I will not ask you to take any chances on this (money) question; I will clearly and unequivocally say to you that my voice and influence are in favor of the gold standard."

McKinley on Release.

A refreshing rain fell last Saturday, and people have begun setting tobacco.

the best money that the ingenuity of man has devised. The people are not prepared to indulge in the speculation of free and unlimited coinage."

And this from McKinley's speech in Congress:

"Whatever dollars we have in this country must be good dollars; good not by the fiat of law alone, but good because the whole commercial world recognizes their inherent and inextinguishable value."

As he very frankly and explicitly declares himself opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver, the Democratic papers, by publishing the above extracts, might correct to some extent the effect of their past misrepresentations of McKinley's financial record.

Looking for Her.

A rural gentleman from Ohio county, giving his name as Decker, was in the city yesterday and watched intently the main entrance of the Infirmary to combination for Mrs. Decker and her escort, whom Mr. Decker said was one Hatfield, and who, by his wiles, had some five days since induced Mrs. Decker to quit his bed and board and flee with him to this city. He had heard that Mrs. Decker and Mr. Hatfield were rapidly encircled in an up-town boarding house, but he had been there and had failed to find them, and he was pretty sure that they would take in the Wild West.

Mr. Decker appealed to the police to aid him in the search for his runaway wife, but at the close of the afternoon performance neither Mr. Hatfield nor Mrs. Decker had been sighted. What success followed the night search was not disclosed. But having heard of no blood-spilling through the night—Mr. Decker was blood thirsty—it is reasonable to suppose that the runaway couple were not caught. [Owensboro Messenger.]

R. W. Bagby, a prominent lawyer of Paducah, Ky., says that Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey cured his children of whooping cough when all things else failed. It is a new remedy for coughs. Guaranteed by all dealers. For sale by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro., druggist and Renfrow Bros., Narrowst Ky.

CENTERTOWN.

Farmers are busily engaged planting and cultivating their corn and transplanting tobacco. The copious showers of Saturday and Sunday morning enabling the tobacco raiser to fill out all land ready for setting.

A large crowd attended the Quarterly Conference here Saturday and Sunday. We have a very interesting Sabbath School in progress here under the supervision of Mr. Joe Foster.

Since the election of 1894 the Republicans of Centertown voting precinct believe they are entitled to recognition at the hands of the party. We have the right man for our next County Judge. That man is Esqr. C. L. Woodward who is well and favorably known throughout the county and needs no eulogy, as everyone knows he is a man of sterling integrity, unswerving character in every way qualified for said office and I confidently believe the above suggestion will meet the hearty approval of the Republican party throughout the county.

No news worth telling at present, but if this escape that big "basket" you may hear from us again.

Loss of the Lyons Quintuplets Dead. MAYFIELD, Ky., May 16.—The wonderful Lyons quintuplets, born to Mrs. Oscar Lewis, of this place, on the 29th of April, are all dead. The last one died yesterday.

Their deaths were very peculiar, and the cause cannot be explained by the physicians, unless caused by error by enormous crowds visiting them, which has been permitted since their birth. The first one died on May 4, and the others on the 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th. Each one of them died instantly and in a similar manner, giving a loud scream at the moment of death. They were fully developed, and for a while appeared to be in perfect health, but a day or two previous to their death they became very thin, as though they would drop.

The bodies of the children have been embalmed, and will be kept on exhibition. The ones embalmed several days ago are in an excellent state of preservation, and no trouble is expected in preserving them by the process. The father and mother of the little wonders are terribly grieved by their loss, and grave fears are entertained that the mother cannot endure the grief, and that the result will be fatal.

President Isaac Lewis of Sabina, Ohio, is highly respected all through that section. He has lived in Clinton Co. 75 years, and has been president of the Sabina Bank 20 years. He gladly testifies to the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and what he says is worthy attention. All brain workers find Hood's Sarsaparilla peculiarly adapted to their needs. It makes pure, rich, red blood, and from this comes nerve, mental, bodily and digestive strength.

Neuralgia

The unusual quietude of Hartford was broken yesterday evening when Commonwealth Attorney J. E. Rowe and Mr. Henry Nall had a little altercation in the barber shop. Mr. Nall was in the barber chair when Mr. Rowe cursed him, whereupon Mr. Nall planted his right fist upon the Attorney's forehead. Friends intervened and peace was restored.

Proceedings of the Alexander Sunday School.

Sunday, May 17.—By request of the Superintendent the class sang No. 10, "Will you be There." The Superintendent then read from Matthew the parable of Virgins and led the prayer. Sunday School was then opened by the class singing No. 111, "I am Walking in the Beautiful Light." J. R. Williams was absent and his class selected Mrs. Laura McKenney who heard the lesson. Miss Inez King and Mrs. J. R. Williams were again absent and their classes were again heard by Mrs. Alex Barnett. Subject of lesson—"The parable of the pounds." Golden text—"He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much, and He that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much." Topic—"God rewards men according to their faithfulness." On calling the roll the fact was disclosed that several of our officers and scholars were absent, a fact we are sorry to record and hope will not occur again. Messrs. Perry Watkins, Beaver Dam; R. P. Baird, Centertown; Bert Combes, of the Concord neighborhood, and Misses Thompson and Williams, of Hartford College, were welcome visitors.

The committee on program for Children's Day at Washington made its report, which was partially received and the matter deferred until next Sunday. The class then sang No. 179, "My Heavenly Home," and after the recitation of the beatitudes the school was dismissed to meet next Sunday at 4 p. m.

There is but little news in this part of the county more than the farmers are jubilant since the nice rain of this week, which was gladly accepted and much needed as every thing was in need of rain.

The health of this community is good at this writing, though we are and as we chronicle the death of one that will be missed in the society of the young and that was Louis Hickey, who died with typhoid fever the 15th of this month. A nice young man just in the bloom of manhood, just three months before reaching his majority, but God knows best so parents, sisters and brothers don't weep for Louis he is likely in better company than we are.

Mr. Charley McDowell and sisters, Misses Belle and Frankie, visited the family of Mr. J. A. Park last Saturday and Sunday, and they were welcomed as only Kentuckians can welcome strangers, they being from our sister State, Indiana, and now attending Hartford College. OBSERVER.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.

Mr. R. T. Caldwell, is book-keeper in the First National Bank of Fulton, Ky. "I was completely run down. My nerves became so unstrung through loss of sleep and worry that I felt sure I would be compelled to give up my position. I would have been a wreck all right, and it took but little to shake me up, that I could not possibly attend to my business as I should. In connection with this I had four pounds, nervous about the stomach, and put in different parts of my body. I was also much reduced in flesh. I was persuaded to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I am now fully recovered, and do not hesitate to pronounce Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine the greatest nervine on earth." R. T. CALDWELL, Fulton, Ky.

BAPTIST CONVENTION.

Bro. Truman writes of His to the South.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., May 12 '96.
EDITOR REPUBLICAN:

The great Southern Baptist Convention convened in this city on Friday, the 8th, and closed on Tuesday the 12th. In many respects it was one of the most interesting, as well as the most harmonious, of any former sessions. The number of messengers present was about one thousand, besides a great many visitors.

Chattanooga, though numbering only about 47,000 people, is, in many respects, a great city. The grandeur of the scenery which can be seen all around and about this hotel city, is wonderful to look upon.

Thirty odd years ago when we soldier boys were marching around and about over mountain, hill and dale, it was then a mere village.

I arrived in the city on the night of the 6th. Early the next morning, in company with Bro. F. F. Jenkins and three other comrades and an excellent driver, we started out to view once more where so many brave boys fell in defense of their country's flag—Mission Ridge and Chickamauga. We were gone all day, and traveled a distance of 40 miles over a most beautiful road. We visited many places of great interest, especially to old soldier boys who were engaged in these two great battles—battles which tried men's souls, where Lee and Gordon's Mills, bloody pond where parts of the armies clashed in a life and death struggle in a hand to hand conflict which only the bravest men can stand.

Some of the surroundings around Lee A. Gordon's mills seem very much as they did 33 years ago. The lake at the great "craw-fish spring" still looks natural but the spring does not, but below where the great spring emerges from the earth has been built a stone dam ten feet high for the purpose of giving power to the dynamo which lights a very large hotel hard by which I do not think ought to have been done as it is one of the greatest or the greatest springs in the United States, or possibly in the world discharging 64,000,000 gallons daily.

Many of the boys will remember the old "Brotherhood House" as well as the "Kelly House" spoken of in the history of the great battle of Chickamauga in one of which General Thomas had for a time his headquarters. There then is the Snodgrass House on the western slope of "Snodgrass Hill."

Here on this hill is where late on Sunday evening the second day of that great battle was perhaps the hardest fighting that took place on that bloody field.

Here it was on the left wing of the Federal army, where General Thomas unflinchingly "The Rock of Chickamauga" and so saved our army from wreck.

Here on this hill stands more than a dozen of the grandest monuments to be seen on the field of that great, great battle. These were placed there to mark for ages to come by the States Tenn., Ohio, Mich., Minn., Ind., Vt., Mo. and several other States which I cannot now call to mind.

But their stands old Kentucky one of the grandest of them all, and you ask has she a monument there too? One to mark the place where her brave boys stood like stones in the face of walls of fire? No! no! there is not one there. But you ask is there not going to be at least one placed in that great Park to mark the brave deeds of courage of the boys who wore the blue or the boys who wore the Gray. Well, I don't know, ask some of those whose party has controlled the affairs at the Capitol of our State during the past 30 years. It may be that it will be done during the few years we have to live.

The past Kentucky Legislatures not having the manhood to pass upon an appropriation for this purpose the old soldiers of both sides seeing how their honor and courage have been neglected ought long ago to have called a fraternal meeting and inaugurate some way by which the money could be raised to place at least one monument there long, long ago to soldiers of Ky. It may be that we shall have to place one there yet it is ever done, if so let us like patriotic sons as we have proven ourselves to be, go work as men and brothers and do it. I shall never vote for any man who does not favor such an appropriation.

I went over a part of the field in which the 17th Ky., was engaged on the first and second days. I saw the place on a point in front of the old place, where the old soldiers of both sides seeing how their honor and courage have been neglected ought long ago to have called a fraternal meeting and inaugurate some way by which the money could be raised to place at least one monument there long, long ago to soldiers of Ky. It may be that we shall have to place one there yet it is ever done, if so let us like patriotic sons as we have proven ourselves to be, go work as men and brothers and do it. I shall never vote for any man who does not favor such an appropriation.

I remember E. L. Huntington is the best hunter and will do your work quick and easy.

MR. AND MRS. BOWSER.

All husbands are always right and always consistent, and Mr. Bowser is no exception to the rule. If things go all right he congratulates himself that they do, and lays it to his good judgment. If things go wrong some one else is to blame for it, and it is more convenient to lay it on Mrs. Bowser than any one else. Not long ago Mr. Bowser reached home in a rainstorm. He had his mind made up as to what he should say before he entered the house, and as Mrs. Bowser met him in the hall he glared at her in a stony way and said:

"Perhaps you call to mind a remark I made as I left the house this morning?"

"Yes, ma'am, about the weather!"

"Didn't I say it would probably pour down in plants and quarts and barrels before night? It has done so, and I haven't a dry thread on me!"

"Then don't lose a minute in getting into dry clothes."

"Never mind the dry clothes! I shall probably have the pneumonia and die, but that will be what you are looking for! It might have occurred to some wives, when they saw their dear husband going away without an umbrella, to—"

"Why, you took your umbrella along!" she interrupted.

"Never!"

"Of course you did! Don't you remember dropping it at the door? You walked right out of the office and left it there."

"I did, eh? Why don't you call me a first-class idiot and be done with it!"

"You must have done so, for you surely carried it away with you!"

"That's exactly what he did, and he knew he did, and he squirmed out of it by offering to bet her a million dollars to a cent that the front door had been left wide open all the afternoon, and that a half thief had carried off half the stuff down stairs."

One morning there was a smell of gas down cellar, and Mrs. Bowser went down to see if he could discover a leak. He put on an old hat kept for "poking around," and when he left the house he wore it away. It was rusty and spotted and broken, and it was only when the boys downtown began to "shoot that hat" that he tumbled to it. Then he flew back with his eyes hanging out and his face of a plum color, and he was no sooner inside the door than he shouted:

"Look at me! Mrs. Bowser—look at that infernal old junkshop which you deliberately saw me wear away on my head and never said a word about it!"

"Did you wear that hat downtown?"

"Did I? Did I?" he shouted, as he banged it on the floor and jumped on it.

"But I didn't see you go. I was upstairs when you left, Mr. Bowser. You are very absent-minded."

"I am, eh? It's a wonder I don't forget to come home, isn't it? Mrs. Bowser, if there's another house in the United States as badly mismanaged as this, I'd like to see it!"

"But you can't blame me because you wore you old hat away!" she protested.

"That's it—that's it! Shoulder it off on me! The papers talk about the startling number of divorces. It's a wonder to me there are not five times as many!"

One day Mr. Bowser brought home a patent corkscrew which some fakir had sold him, and Mrs. Bowser saw him drop it into a wall-pocket. A week later, after wandering around the house for half an hour one evening he halted before her and said:

"I'll be hanged if I don't get some chains and padlocks and see if I can't have things where I left them!"

"What is it now?"

"I brought home a can-opener a few days ago and left it on a bracket in the dining-room. It's gone, of course—probably given away to some big, lazy tramp! It's a wonder we have a thing left in the house!"

"A can-opener?"

"Yes, a can-opener. If you never heard of a can-opener, I'll hire someone to write you a history of it. It was invented to open cans."

"Why, we have two or three in the kitchen. Do you mean a can-opener?"

"I don't mean windmills or thrashing machines."

"You had it in a pink paper?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"It was the day the man fixed the furnace?"

"It was."

"Well, I saw you drop it in that wall-pocket, and it is a corkscrew and not a can-opener."

"It is, eh? Perhaps I don't know a hatching post from the city hall, he growled as he reached for the parcel and unrolled it. It was a corkscrew. It was made and sold for a corkscrew."

"Didn't I tell you?" queried Mrs. Bowser.

"Tell me what? Told me it was a corkscrew, and it's a can-opener, just as I said it was?"

"It's a corkscrew!"

"And as long as Mr. Bowser draws the breath of life he'll stick to it, because he said so in the first place."

Like other husbands, Mr. Bowser is greatly worried over the safety of his wallet while around the house. He has an idea that Mrs. Bowser would give ten years of his life to get that wallet in her hands for about two minutes, and that she lies awake a good share of every night in the year wondering where he hid it when he went to bed. He makes it a religious duty to conceal it every night and to count over his funds the first thing in the morning. One morning, strange as it may seem, he left the house without taking his wallet, which he had hidden the night before under the bureau. He had been gone about an hour when there was a great clatter on the front steps, the door flew open, and he rushed into the back parlor and stood before Mrs. Bowser.

"She was so upset that she could only faintly gasp:

"Mr. Bowser, is mother dead?"

"Mother dead?" he yelled in reply, "what do I know about your mother?"

"No!"

"And in my own house at that!"

Some time during the night some one got out of bed and stole my wallet!

"Impossible! Was it in your coat?"

"Well, no—not exactly. For fear of burglars!"

"You what?" she asked as he hesitated and looked confused.

He rushed upstairs, and she followed in time to see him pull the wallet from under the dresser.

"Then you were not robbed?" she tartly observed.

"No—not quite; not this time. But let this be a great moral lesson to you, Mrs. Bowser—never to meddle with my wallet. That's some thing no husband will put up with."

"I never touched your old wallet!"

"And so that you never do! And don't talk back, Mrs. Bowser. You have had a very narrow escape, and you ought to be thankful for it—very thankful. Some husbands would have raised a row; but I think you understand me, and I think the lesson will not be lost on you."

Third—Give your opinion as to the difference between its strength and action, and the strength and action of the "Liver Regulator" made by J. H. Dr. G. C. Osenton, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interests of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack medicines which are destroying their lives, and, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other similar agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. P. Kneass, Conway, Ark.

"Castoria is well adapted to children; that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their entire practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
